Dear Friends and Supporters,

Election of our government representatives, from the president on down, is incredibly important. We just finished the primary season and with run-offs in several important races.

Surprisingly, in Republican primary voting, there was a very small turnout. This has encouraged Democrats who believe they may have a better chance than they have had in a long time on getting more elected offices.

Elections related to the abortion issue are very important. This month's educational update is a report from the Alabama Prolife Coalition, Inc. on the abortion issue. We have continuing inquiries about where we are with the issue in Alabama. Primarily, abortion drugs are coming into the state, and abortions are still being done. How can that be stopped?

As noted, one remedy is for the president to direct the FDA to do the right thing about the provision of abortifacients through the mail. The other option is for Alabama legislators to return to their history of supporting the sanctity of life, which they have not done for the last four years. The people for whom you voted are the people who will be making these decisions.

Several pro-life incumbents were not re-elected. That will require re-education of new members on the importance of the abortion issue. We appreciate your support of our efforts to educate law givers on the sanctity of life and how to protect the lives of the defenseless unborn.

Thank you for your continuing support and prayers for our efforts.

With personal regards, I am,

Yours very truly,

A. Eric Johnston
